It's . . .

We did it! We're starting a new decade - the decade of the 80's. Like the teens of the 50's and 60's, and 70's, we owe it to ourselves to make the best of the ten years to come, whether it's fighting to kill nuclear power or fighting to save Americans in Iran.

A New Game

For some, the thought of a new decade brings hope and excitement for new changes. For others, it's a time to sit back, relax and remember the good times of the 70's. However we play the game of life, memories of the starting of the game-high school — will return. Students from Mid

High noted a definite change of atmosphere at Senior High. They found that by being treated more like adults, they enjoyed school far more. The design of the campus allowed kids to choose where they wanted to eat at lunch. Students could eat in the cafeteria, go out for lunch, or just kick back and release a few Z's on the grass or benches.

It is our hope that the 1980 TORNADIA not only brings great memories and happiness now, but in future decades in our lives.

The new game is underway.

Year . . .

The new school year started off again with the rush of registration. Students lined up outside the gymnasium lobby for their turn to receive their registration cards. After pushing and shoving, everyone entered the upper gym to sign up for various classes. Many a time classes would fill up and a whole new schedule would have to be made. With the help of a vice-principal, counselors, and many friendly teachers, students worked out class schedules.

Along with registering, students found themselves adapting to a new school year. Many students quit their jobs for school, while others merely rearranged their schedules.

Buying new clothes, seeing old friends, making new ones, and hitting the books again marked the beginning of the new school year.

After three months of freedom and continuous sunshine, it was difficult for students to abandon swimming, water skiing, and sunbathing for pencils, paper, assignments and classroom confinement.

Kari Dorstad and Karen Nelson sign up with Lanny Pitts for marketing. Pitts accepted a job with C.P. National and was replaced by Doug Jantzi at mid-year.

Students Dress for the Decade

At the beginning of the 70's, it was dirty jeans, baggy t-shirts, and "Lady Godiva hair." With the 80's fashion definitely dressed up, while still providing room for individuality.

Clothing said something about our feelings. Some students felt like dressing up for school. More girls wore skirts or dresses than in years past. High heeled, wood soled Candies and Bare Traps were popular. Fur jackets were new for girls, but ski jackets were still common attire for both sexes.

Hair styles for girls ranged from short to long. Braids were big and small, long and short, and inspired by Bo Derek in the movie "10." Perms were in also (even at $40). Guys' hair settled at a length covering the ears and touching the collar.

Kathy Glogowski and Tracy Jensen show the animal on them.

New brands of jeans were popular — Brittan as, San Franciscos, Calvin Klein, Gloria Vanderbilt. Many students still liked to be casual and comfortable. As one student commented, "I feel I can get more work done wearing my Levis and Birkenstocks!"

Concerts, Movies — Part of Game

With the new decade, new activities arose for the Medford Senior High Student to enjoy. The Rogue Valley was honored by the presence of two jazz giants. Jazz pianist, Dave Brubeck, made his appearance at the Britt Gardens on Saturday, August 25th. His easy going personality and impeccable abilities made his concert very memorable. What's more, it was a treat to listen to a jazz quartet live under the clear, starlit August skies.

Next was that crazy black jazz trumpet player, Dizzie Gillespie.

Gillespie's cracks about racism, society, and life in general kept the audience roaring with laughter. However, when he got down to business with his music, laughter ceased and an approving quiet spread throughout the Medford Senior High auditorium, Saturday night January 19.

Linda Bezanson, Patty Douglas, Barb Nutter, and Irene Bessler ponder what to do on Friday night.

We also attended such concerts as Pablo Cruise, who played at the Expo December 12. The Cars were another biggie September 18th, and Jan and Dean played Halloween night. The big movies of the year were Electric Horseman, Apocalypse Now, Kramer vs. Kramer and Star Trek.

Students Ski, Hike, Work

Even though we tended to cut our home town down a bit, we really, do live in a great area. We had the opportunity to see some of the finest Shakespearean plays in the United States right in Ashland.

In one hour we can be on our way up the steep trails of Mt. McLaughlin, or

Table Rock for some beautiful, scenic hiking. We have bike paths that extend from one end of town to the other. Bike rides to Ashland became more frequent with Medford students as well as some teachers. More and more of us tried out those two cold winter sports — downhill and cross country skiing. Jogging to keep fit was still at the top of our exercise list.

Students Follow World Events

Students were aware that there was more to the world than Medford. We followed with interest the major U.S. and world news events of this last year of the 70's and the first year of the new decade.

Medford, both his presence and his viewpoints were widely publicized. The takeover of the American Embassy in Iran outraged us and made the energy supply seem even more uncertain.

cover of Newsweek lagged at our hearts. Our sympathies also went out to American athletes as we debated whether the United States should boycott the 1980 Olympics scheduled to be held in Russia this summer.

Very close to home was the economic situation. We cringed as our 14K gold chains became increasingly expensive as gold soared to $800 an ounce. We felt the double-digit inflation as our paychecks and allowances just "didn't buy what they used to

New Decade Hits Local Scene

Welcome to the new decade in "Deadford, Boregon." All kinds of exciting things happened here in the center of the western United States.

The economic problems of the nation were felt here in high prices on everything. Housing starts were down, however large construction projects did proceed, as a new jail was built as was the Applegate Dam. A new bank surfaced on every corner.

Also proliferating in 1980 were fast food joints. Hot dog lovers could get satisfied at Fabulous Franks and Wienerschnitzel. Pizza Hut, Plantation Fried Chicken and Baskin Robbins also came to Medford.

Saving money on gas helped double the ridership on the Rogue Rapids Transit buses and made the ski bus a $3 bargain.

Student involvement with City Hall ranged from observing a council meeting to paying for a speed-dating class.

Politically it was the year of the recall
Commissioner Carol Doty and Councilman Hugh Jennings were both recalled. Many of us will participate in voting for president in the fall

On With the Game

We weathered the stormy seventies. The system edged toward the brink but it also worked. We will never be the same, wearied perhaps, but wiser. Vietnam and Watergate, John Wayne and Woody Allen, disco dancers and shrinking dollars, the Bicentennial, the gas bite, women's rights. It is certainly worth looking back. We've all just given that decade ten years of our lives.

We entered the new decade — the 80's. We're working up to the fact that within this decade, we'll be making most all of our decisions for the future. "Shall we continue with school? Should we begin work right away? What about the armed forces?" In many ways, we are like the teens of the 60's, having contemplated war, and reaching out to find ourselves. We need to remember that we are teenagers and we need to enjoy being young, free, and full of energy. Yet becoming a responsible person is an important part of growing up. Looking at the 80's, we feel that the next 10 years may just be the most exciting decade in our game of life.

Training Ground

Yes, this is where we train for the future. For many of us the school, the people, the faces, are new encounters long to be remembered. During our short two year stay here, we grow, learn, mature, and gain new experiences. A fresh start for our development as young adults is greatly aided by Medford Senior High. The school, not only helps us grow, but it also grows with us reflecting the mood and style of each new year and class of students. This change that comes about each year is something that is evoked by students, faculty, the school board, parents, and the other adults in the community. The members of each graduating class like to think that their last year is the best graduating year ever. This year's class has every right to think the same, as they enter a new decade in the game of life.

A few of the many changes and differences that make this year special and different from all other years are the addition of several new teachers, a new set of competencies, and of course, a new class of students.

We Study Languages and People

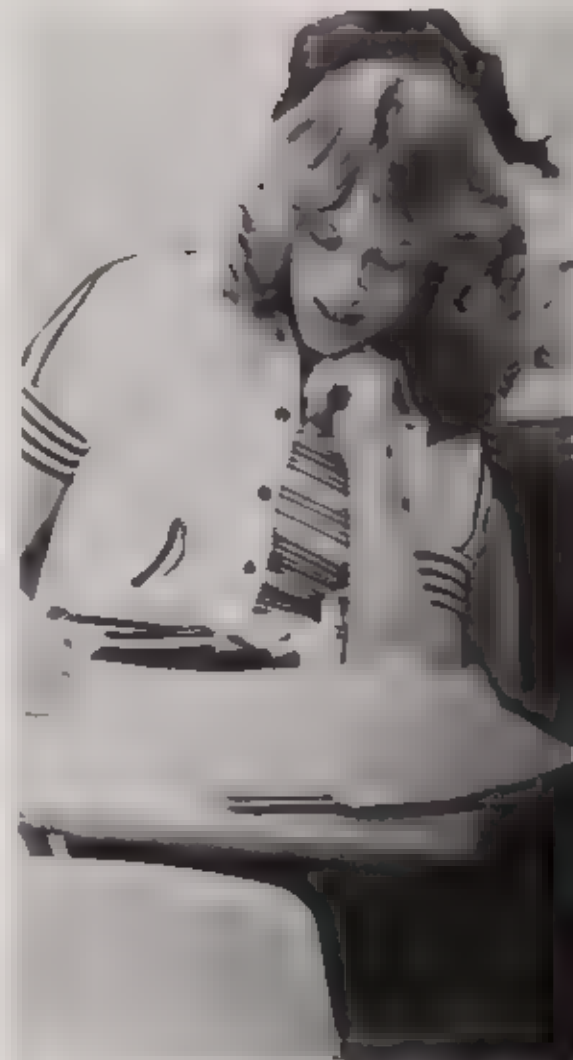

A full complement of English, social studies, and foreign language is taught at Medford Senior High. The humanities have long been thought of as the opposite to the sciences. To obtain a more balanced education before leaving Senior High, students are required to take what is considered a minimal amount of both. This may be the reason that humanities are rapidly growing in popularity at Senior High.

English, the study of our language is an old stale statement, why not a new outlook after all, we are starting a new year and a new decade? If you are tired of the same old style of learning, then Senior High's English teachers and classes are for you. Our English teachers approach this fundamental problem through varied activities such as projects dealing with a reading selection. In mythology, projects like carvings, paintings, tapestries and the like were used this year. Other projects are speeches, documentation of areas related to subjects, and even having the students teach a lesson for a day. Most of these projects either take the place of or carry the same grades as a written report, though there are still teachers who prefer a more traditional form of classwork. While the style may be changing, some things never change, including what must be taken to complete an education, in English it is necessary to have three quarters of literature, two quarters of writing and one quarter of public speaking. Some of the classes that fulfill these needs include college prep, public speaking, writing skills and a variety of elective classes.

America, 1492, Christopher Columbus, that's what started it all. Just think if it wasn't for ole Chris, we wouldn't have to study over 200 years of boring history on our country. Although we seem to think that social studies is nothing but history, upon a closer look we find it's much more. It also includes courses on our government, sociology, and even one on family finance. For the betterment of their education, students are to take one semester each of U.S. History, citizenship, and family finance before leaving Senior High.

Language courses at Medford Senior High range from Spanish to French, German, Russian and Latin. While these classes are still electives, two or more years are recommended for college bound students. While enrolled in a language class, students not only learn about their chosen language and its workings, they also learn about the country from which that language originated.

We Learn More Math and Science

Students had the chance to welcome several new teachers to the MSHS science staff this year. This experience was a learning process for both teachers and students. With the addition of these new instructors and the deletion of second year chemistry the newly reformed science department was complete. Our science department offered courses in physics and astronomy for the more academically oriented as well as biology and chemistry for those wishing only a basic understanding of the world around them. Offered in our science curriculum were several elective courses such as anatomy and physiology, horticulture and ISIS.

Introduction to Computers was an elective course offered in the math department in 1980. This was not the only course offered in the mathematics field. Courses ranged from consumer math to advanced calculus. There were courses for all needs and wants. For people who needed the basic math required for everyday life there was consumer math, for those wanting an extra year or two of math or planning future development in this area there was algebra and geometry. For those lucky few who already had a high degree of skill in this area, calculus and advanced calculus were offered.

We Learn Creative Activities

P.E. was a course which offered a chance for students to release their excess physical energy in an invigorating and active way. These activities were enjoyable as long as everyone followed a few simple requirements. P.E. was required for at least one semester and in that semester one three week unit of an individual activity was required while the other three units were left for the student to choose from a list of elective activities. To receive a passing grade in P.E. it was necessary to gather no more than three 'non-participant' days per unit, be judged competent in the particular activities the student chose, and to pass at least four of the six units of the semester. For more enjoyment and to build a greater sense of responsibility students were required to have and wear a shirt, shoes, and shorts, and each student was expected to look after his own property.

A creative and exciting activity that many people at Medford Senior High School participated in was expressing themselves in art. Offered in the art department was a group of varied art classes, ranging from general art to individual study. These courses offered methods of exploring the fields of art through designing and making jewelry, pottery work, leather and fabric craftsmanship, stained glass activities and painting.

For those of us who wished to enlarge our appreciation of as well as our involvement in creating and expressive arts, there was the chance to become a member of the musical society of Medford Senior High School. Whether our interests were singing, playing an instrument, or just learning to appreciate good music we had these areas for involvement: choir, band, stage band, orchestra, 20th Century music and music appreciation.

Students Learn Useful Skills

Students involved in technical arts or home economics learn useful skills which will aid them in their everyday life in the not too distant future

Students enrolled in the technical arts curriculum at Medford Senior High School in 1980 had the opportunity to use several new machines and work on a shop annex in order to gain practical experiences as well as the standard technical training

Learning to be better home economists was the general aim of the students enlisted in this field of education at Medford Senior High School. While this may have been the broader aim of these students most of them had a more specific goal in mind, such as bettering, or learning skills as chefs or tailors.

We Study For New Careers

Students study a new profession for a new role in life in a new time. Students in business classes learn a myriad of skills which will become important in their future employment. The skills learned are mainly office and clerical in nature. These "soon to be business persons" learn one or all of the essential office occupations ranging from typing, stenography, and business law, to marketing, business machines and several others.

A course which many people feel is the most valuable to students attending Medford Senior High School is Career Education. This class attempts to familiarize students with their own special skills and abilities and how they relate to their interests and possible future fields of work. This course also explores methods which can be used to seek and find employment.

Parade, Game, Wrap Up Week

The Powder Puff Game, a traditional part of Homecoming, almost wasn't. Due to many difficulties concerning the field, the game between the junior and the senior girls was almost called off.

Another traditional event of Homecoming week was the noise parade on Friday. The parade consisted mostly of pickup trucks packed with spirited students, and of course the Medford Senior High Band. Also on Friday there was the window painting judging with the entry of the Mat Stats winning.

Finally the night of the big game rolled around, Medford defeating Klamath 15 to 12. During half time the Homecoming court was introduced. Kent Stafford and Julie Hallin were chosen king and queen. The seniors on the court were JoAnn Lime and her escort Dain Syverson, and Jeanette Jacobson and her escort Derryl Willis. The juniors on the court were Holly Jones and her escort Greg Meyer, and Shenitta Willis and her escort Jeff Noahr.

The Homecoming Committee once again succeeded in planning an active and fun week of activities for the students.

Ex-Comm VIII: A Job Well Done

Communication and serving as a liaison between administration and students was Ex-Comm VIII's principal objective. With that goal in mind their one year term was a busy one. To reach their principal objective they worked closely with both parties in organizing school activities.

These activities included the winter dance and homecoming week, both of which had large turnouts. But Ex-Comm's work didn't end there, they had many other projects to keep them busy. Early in the year they sent letters to Governor Atiyeh, which concerned the rising cost of tuition for state colleges. They also participated in student government workshops locally and in Eugene. Closer to home, the Ex-Comm helped with arena scheduling and served as hosts for the open house. They also spent time examining the club system as well as reviewing school activity policies.

Then from amidst the flying paper-airplanes, and in spite of the catcalls emerged Ex-Comm, IX. Teresa Kelley, chairperson, Wendy Boucher, Rob Christian, Nancy Keiser, Lori Leatherman, Brian Luderhman, Andy Luther and Josh Renshaw.

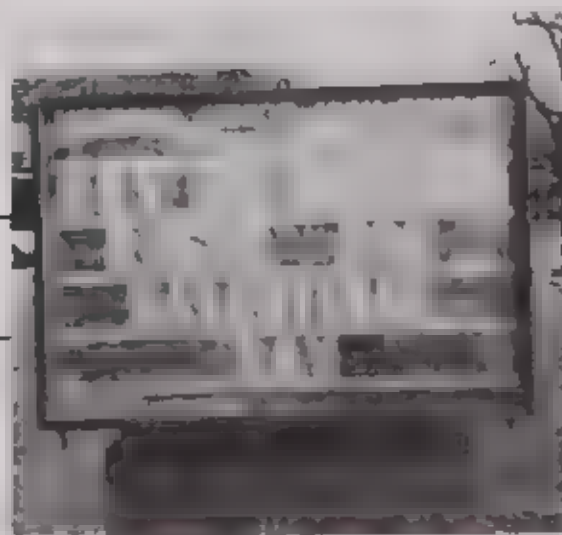

Including their frequent duties (changing the marquee, boy and girl of the month, visitations, Rotary club, etc.) Ex-Comm IX devoted a large amount of time to the bloodmobile the May 16th spring lung youth night, and the elections of various persons to various committees. Future events (homecoming activities, winter ball, turkey baskets), will require a maximum effort upon the part of the Ex-Comm members. For more information call 77X-COMM.

Anne Frank Presented

Due to the heavy fog on opening weekend of DIARY OF ANNE FRANK, the play was extended so that more people might be able to see one of the best plays Senior High has ever produced. ANNE FRANK was a true story about a young Jewish girl, her family and friends hiding in an Amsterdam warehouse during the Holocaust and invasion of World War II. The play was based on the actual diary kept by Anne during the time her family was hiding from the Nazis.

Anne Frank was Portrayed by junior Wendy Boucher. Ron Pawlowski, also a junior, played as Anne's father, Mr. Frank. Mrs. Frank was played by an old veteran at the Senior High, Janice Schott. Playing the role of Anne's sister, Margot, was Kami Ehrlich. Portraying the members of the Van Daan family, friends of the Franks also hiding in the attic, were John Mansfield as Mr. Van Daan, Theresa Albright as Mrs. Van Daan, and John Cook as their son Peter. Also included in the cast were Charles Reid as Mr. Dussel, Jay Rowe as Mr. Krahler, and Brenda Philips as Meip. The director was Bob Burgoyne, of course. Peggy Williams was student director.

The play was well attended and can be adequately summed up with a quote from Wendy Boucher: "I wish it could go on forever."

Jay Rowe, playing Mr. Krahler, enters the attic through a hidden door.

Wendy Boucher's first acting role as a junior was the starring role in the Diary of Anne Frank.

Even though she lives in an attic, Theresa Albright still has her legs and her coat.

Carnival: Lively and Glamorous

CARNIVAL which was presented by the Senior High Fine Arts Department opened March 6th and continued through the weekend until the 8th

The story of CARNIVAL revolves around a wide-eyed, lonely orphan girl named Lili Dauner. Lili was enchanted with the desire to join the lively and glamorous carnival. The troupe she joins up with, which is touring the small cities of France about a decade ago, is tacky and run down, although touches of its former splendor show through in the jubilant production number "Grand Imperial Cirque de Paris."

Lili is unsuccessful at almost every task assigned to her with the troupe. She becomes the pawn in a vicious rivalry for her affection between Marco the Magnificent, the troupe's magician, and Paul Berthalet, a puppeteer with a game leg. Rosalie, Marco's partner in the magic, adds bursts of humor to the plot with her own kind of jealousy. Still searching for a place in the carnival, Lili joins the puppeteers, Paul and Jacquot. The puppeteers' act consists of four puppets; a sentimental walrus, a sophisticated fox, a lively red-headed puppet, and a society lady.

The story unfolds as the innocent Lili, by her very presence in the carnival, brings about changes in the attitudes of those around her. One by one the main characters begin to drop their pretenses and show their real feelings. At last the conflict between Marco, the love who is beguiling, and Paul, the lover who is true, is resolved as Lili rejects Marco and exits with Paul.

The production of CARNIVAL was the first musical the school has produced in several years, and was double cast so that more students would be able to participate.

Superstar

A Success

On March 28 a student directed adaptation of JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR was released in the Senior High auditorium. Because the opera is long itself, select songs were sung by Irene Barnett, Julie Grittin, Britt Tollefson, Ron Pawlowski, Dave Palmerton, Kirk Gibson, Bill White, and John West. Jesus Christ was played by Darryl Willis.

Although the music department often presents programs of this type, JCS was unique in that all staging, directing, musical arranging, choreography, and performance was done by students. Besides a well received public performance, JCS received a special award at the Oregon Thespian State Conference. After much hard work by all involved, JCS proved to be both a technical and an artistic success.

Band, Choir Enjoy Travel Game

On May 16 the band, flag team, majorettes, and dance team started on their all-night ride to Victoria, B.C. After passing through customs and unloading the buses, the band had the rest of the day to tour Victoria. Most of the people had the chance to visit the museum, the Empress Hotel, and the Parliament Building. The following day the stage band, directed by Tom Muller, played a concert in Heritage Court. After dinner that night, the band traveled to Butchart Gardens and enjoyed an evening of entertainment and flowers. On Monday, May 19, the band participated in the Victoria Day Parade, where they received second place in their division. The majorettes received first

San Francisco was the destination of the choir April 17-20. The first night they traveled to the Napa Valley where they enjoyed a potluck dinner and shared a concert with the Vinyard High School choir. Singers also visited Beringer Bros. vineyard and winery while in the Napa Valley.

While in San Francisco, choir members got a bird's eye view of the San Francisco Symphony from the top rows of the War Memorial Opera House. Saturday night they attended a performance of MUSIC MAN starring Dick Van Dyke.

Expensive dinners, Golden Gate Park, Alcatraz, Fisherman's Wharf, Cable Cars, and shopping galore all helped to make the trip a real experience. Unfortunately, the odyssey to the "City by the Bay" had to end. Sunday morning the choir sang for services at the Calvary Presbyterian Church, then headed back to Medford.

Ned Engleson gives his coach, Miss Ekberg, a piggyback ride.

It was a good year for the Medford Senior High Debate Team, despite several coaching difficulties at the start of the season. Sandilee Ekberg came through however, generously taking on the coaching position for the remainder of the year. The team did a lot of traveling, making appearances at several college campuses like Linfield, Lewis and Clark, University of Oregon. The year culminated at Eastern Oregon State College in LaGrande, Oregon, where State was held.

The highlight of the year was senior David Hearth's tremendous showing at National Forensic League competition in Portland. David qualified for nationals in extemp to be held in Huntsville, Alabama in June.

"It's been a great four years with a terrific bunch of people," said Claire Coleman.

Sailor Sets Sail for Winter Formal

December 20th 1979 was the date of the 2nd annual semi-formal winter dance. ExComm sponsored the dance, Medford's Holiday Inn supplied the dance floor, Portland's Sailor made the music, and the students pulled it all together.

The dance was Sadie Hawkins style so the roles were reversed. It was the girls turn to wine and dine the guys. Some lucky guys were treated to dinner at such places as Ashland Hills, Jacksonville Inn, Sandpiper, and the Red Lion. Not only did they wine and dine them, but they girls asked them to dance as well. The fact that it was a Sadie Hawkins dance may have also accounted for its large turnout.

This experience has been really good for me. I can say that I've learned a lot. Not only at school, like any student, but also like a kind of American citizen.

I had the possibility to learn about a new culture, a new kind of people. It hasn't been very easy. Sometimes it's a hard experience, but you can survive.

This school and this city aren't the best in the world, but are very fun because they were completely new for me. About the school, I would say that it is fantastic. Besides the relationships among the people, I would say that the classes I took were really interesting and I really enjoyed it.

I don't know if I'll come back to the states, but I would like to maybe someday.

SARA

"Full of new experiences" is the expression that I can describe my one-year stay in Medford. Even though I am from Japan, I had slept in a bed instead of on the floor and I have had MacDonald's hamburgers. But still, there were a lot of things in America which were new to me.

Over all, this year has gone by so quick that I hardly have any time to look back or become homesick. Anyway, I have been having a great time here, thanks to everybody who supported me throughout the year.

EMANUEL

I thought a lot about this school before I arrived, but I never imagined something like that. This school is just fun, really fun.

My best decision I made before I chose any classes, was to become a member of the band. So I could be a part of the group that gives the school its spirit. I've never seen such a band in my life. Musicians, teachers, everybody is just great. I think it's not very nice for the football team, not even to thank the band for their help, the same for the basketball team.

Generally, the students here are nice and helpful, I never had trouble to find any room, usually somebody showed me where to go.

I made some great friendships that hope will last my whole life.

I didn't only have fun here in Medford, I also learned about the states, about their citizens, about the customs, about a lot.

I participated in a team, ski team, probably the best team in the whole school. And we had fun.

I also had bad experiences, my watch was stolen and I felt lonely some times, but all those moments were overshadowed by all my good times.

In all it was a great year and it was worth to come to Medford. So I just can say thank you all, thank you, you students, you friends, thank you teachers, counselors, thank you MSHS.

Hope to see you again in Switzerland or here in Medford.

YOUTH FOR UNDERSTANDING EXCHANGE STUDENTS: Gayetano DeMarti (Spain), and Jerker Larsson (Sweden)

TANO

My name is Gayetano de Marti, but everybody knows me as Tano. I come from Spain and I came here with the YFU. I became an exchange student after I passed some English and psychological tests. I was a very fortunate person, because in Spain more than one thousand students try to go to the USA and only 75 made it.

In Spain we can not choose the subjects like here, and it was a surprise to me knowing all the possibilities that we have here. I took U.S. History, Public Speaking, World History, Mythology, Photography, Newspaper, Jewelry, and P.E. but not everything is studied here. I learned some new sports that we don't have in Spain, like racquetball, football and baseball. I like MSHS very much and I enjoyed the ten months that I've spent here. I will never forget the football and basketball games, the forests, the people. In one word Oregon. Especially Medford. I will keep forever all these memories in my heart.

JERKER

Before I came to Medford I experienced some strange coincidences. I got to meet one of the daughters in Sweden from my host family. Because she was going to be an exchange student there for a year and live with a family I know who lives a couple blocks away from my house. This wasn't arranged. I also met the second daughter on my way from Portland to Medford — the world is small!

My year here in Medford has been a fantastic experience. It was a little bit hard in the beginning to come to this school with about 1400 new faces but it didn't take a long time before you got to know you all.

The school system in Sweden is very different from yours. After nine years of obligatory school, most people attend something that is called "the gymnasium," which would be similar to your high school.

The gymnasium is for three years and you choose different lines like science line, social study line, etc. instead of choosing separate subjects as you do here. I really appreciated being able to choose different subjects, but I could also see its limits.

Some other things I appreciated were the clubs, sports and other school activities. In my school in Sweden we don't have many sports connected with school and we just have a few clubs. I was involved in cross country, ski team and tennis. I was a member of the ski club and the science club and enjoyed participation in many of their activities. I went for example, on the science club's San Francisco trip.

Even if you don't have ice bears and nude blond girls walking on the street, I think the U.S. is a very nice country.

I made many friends and had a really good time. Thank you all for giving me this experience.

Coralie & Heike Share Their Cultures

Coralie Fraser From Australia

The Medford area is a far cry from my small rural country town of Central Queensland, Australia, and a number of things are very different. Particularly the Senior High in contrast to the 500 students school (gr. 1 - 12) from which I graduated. However school life at Senior High is not all that different from school in Australia and basically we do the same type of things, except we wear uniforms and study the same subjects for a 2 year period in order to graduate.

After being here for 4 months through a Rotary Exchange Program, I have come to realize that the Australian way of life is not all that different from the American way of life as I know it. Although of English heritage, the Americans' had a great influence over Australia in the post war years and thus many things are similar. One question that people are often asking me is "What language do Australian's speak?" Particularly as we are English speaking and always have been.

So far I have really enjoyed everything I have done and all the different people I have met. I'm sure that I will have learned a great deal.

Coralie

Heike Wolf From Germany

On my first day in this school I was very scared. I did not know anybody and hardly dared to say a word. But students and teachers were so nice and helpful that I soon felt at home and started to enjoy going to school here. I especially liked the big variety of classes I could choose from.

There are a lot of wonderful memories and impressions I will take home with me. Football games, our band cheerleaders, the choir and the great theatre — productions to name only a few. And of course I will always remember all the nice people I met here.

Thank you all for making this year unforgettable for me. I really hope that I can come back to Oregon one day.

Ten Attend Girls' State, Boys' State

Leilan Yamada tells about Girls' State and Girls' Nation. "Girls' State and Girls' Nation are excellent programs designed to give today's young adults an opportunity to gain experience in government. The programs not only provided a chance to become involved in government, but also offer the chance to meet new people

Those of us who attended Oregon's Girls' State from MSHS really enjoyed two girls to represent the State of Oregon at Girls' Nation.

The national program consisted of two girls from each state that attended Girls' Nation as U.S. Senators. It was held in Washington D.C. during August.

Once again, the campaigning began. This time, the candidates were running for the offices of Girls' Nation.

It provided the opportunity to meet people. The girls came from all over the nation and from various cultural backgrounds. It was really awesome to be around such bright, outgoing people. The competitive spirit in the presidential and vice presidential elections was strong and did not allow the girls to really get to know each other. But once the elections were completed, the same process of making friends that occurred at Girls' State became a dominant force at Girls' Nation.

The opportunities presented at both Girls' State and Girls' Nation were numerous. Many youth programs provided today's students with the chance to develop their abilities to their highest potential. Girls' State and Girls' Nation are just two of these programs that prepare the young people of today to accept the responsibility of leadership tomorrow.

Six MSHS students attended Boys' State. They had similar experiences to those enjoyed by the girls. Boys' Staters elected officials for city, county, and state governmental units. They had a complete legislature, including even a lobbyist association. The top 8 bills passed by the Boys' State Legislature were actually submitted to the Oregon Legislature.

Senior High delegates held the largest share of offices. Shaun Harvey ran for Attorney General. John Mansfield and David Hearsh were elected supreme court justices.

According to Mansfield, Boys' State differs from Girls' State in that it is run by a more youthful group. Former Boys' Staters ran the program, most of them are under age 25. The boys also experienced less ceremony and fewer restrictions than did the girls.

Boys' State had their own newspaper. They also received more than usual news coverage, being written up in The New Yorker.

the week long program. We ran for various offices, campaigned each day, and voted for those people whom we thought would best fill the offices. But more importantly, we got to meet many wonderful, talented people. It was amazing to see how quickly all the girls became friends and how strong those friendships grew.

At the close of the week, we elected

These offices within the mock government are parallel to those of the President and Vice President of the United States. After the primary and general elections, the president and vice president assumed their respective offices. The cabinet was chosen by the vice president and the next day after the election outcome was known.

Kiwanis Honors Students

Each month during the school year two people are chosen from the student body to receive the title of Boy and Girl of the Month. Ex-Comm makes the decision of who should receive the honor on the basis of the nominees' academic ability and involvement in extra-curricular activities. Once these students are selected, they are then invited to attend a luncheon sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Medford.

TEAM WORK

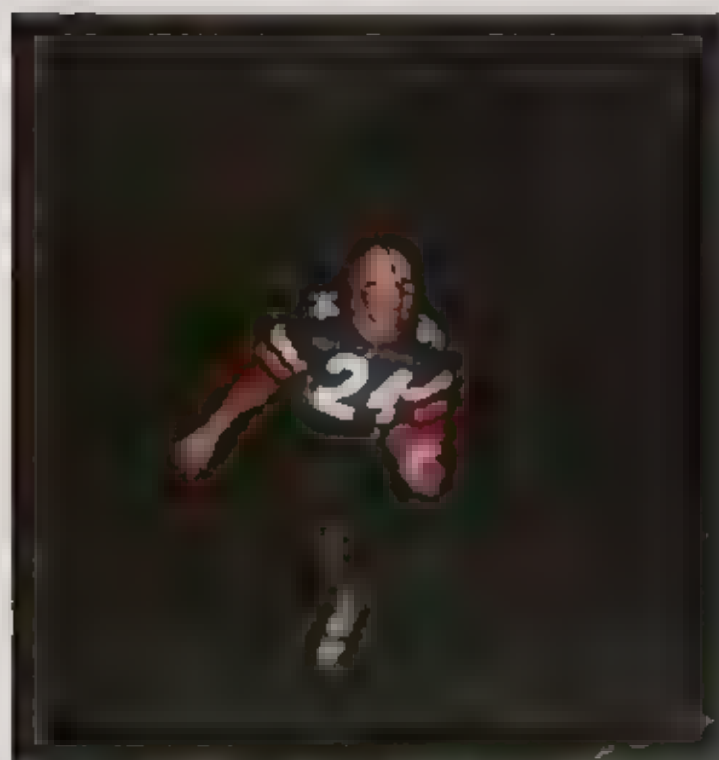

Tornados Go Undefeated, Keep Winning Streak at 31

The addition of Hidden Valley, Eagle Point and Mazama to the Southern Oregon Conference forced Medford to bypass their customary pre-season games. The Black Tornado started the season off with the mighty Cavemen of Grants Pass. It was billed as the league championship. The Cavemen were believed to have the best senior class since 1975 and were touted as our most formidable opponent. The score was tied 7-7 at half-time after Mark Mullaney scored on a three yard run. In the fourth quarter Don Hoyt hit Roger Daniels with a 15 yard pass which proved to be the winning touchdown and the league championship.

In the following weeks, the Tornado disposed of Roseburg and Crater before facing a tough Hidden Valley team, and then crushed Eagle Point, Mazama, and Ashland. In our final Southern Oregon Conference game, the Tornado beat Klamath Falls 15-14 for an undefeated season.

Tornados Come Oh, So Close

Before the season started Coach Fred Spiegelberg stated: "I'm not sure if we'll make the play offs." The Tornados made it, opening up with David Douglas of Portland. The Tornados whipped the Scots 24-7, without the services of Tim Arnsberg and Roger Daniels who were sidelined due to injuries.

Medford then, traveled north to play Forest Grove on a muddy field. It was a defensive battle, the Tornado finally won 13-0 on an interception runback by Todd Dixon in the final seconds of the game.

The following week Sheldon came to town for another rain soaked game. The Tornados played good solid football winning 16-0.

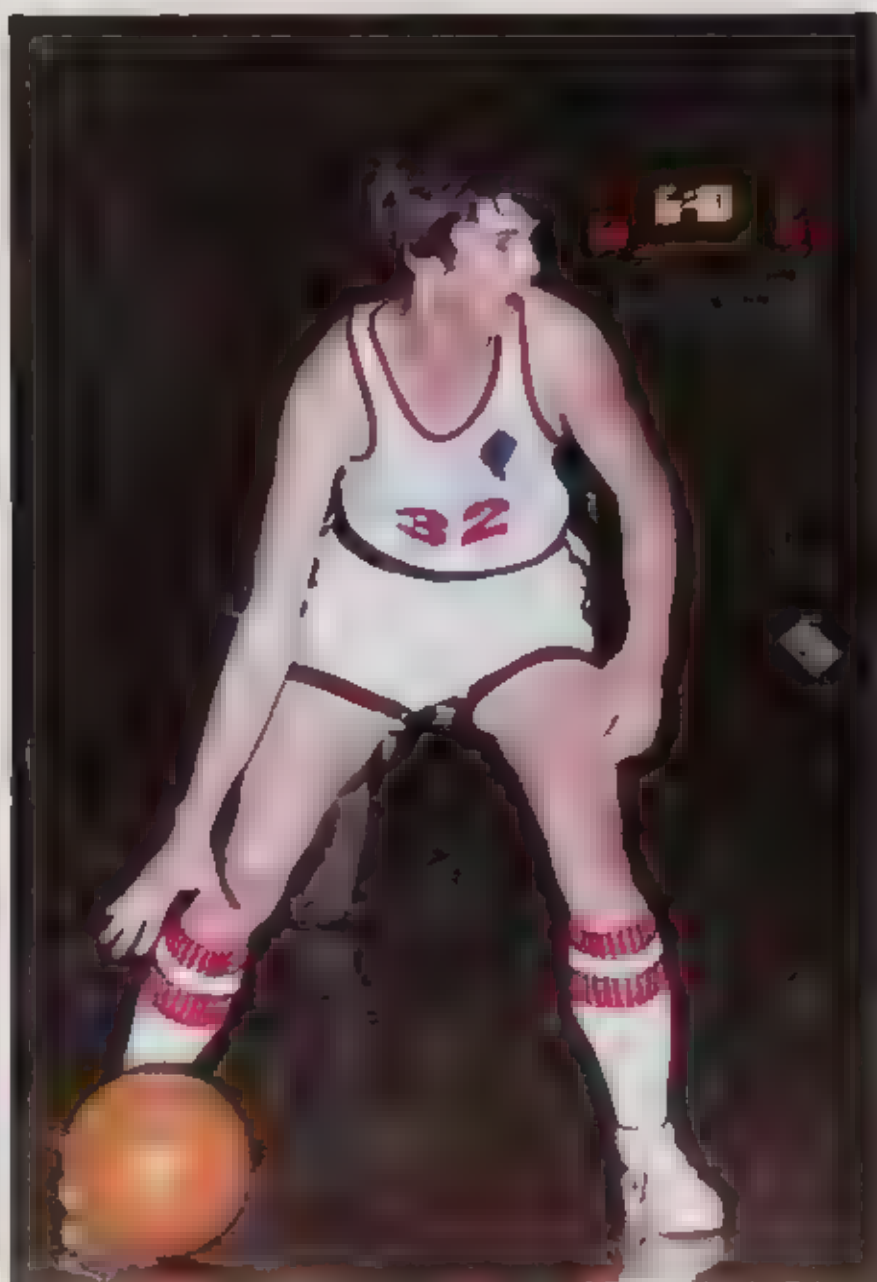

The semi final was a rematch between Medford and Churchill of Eugene. Medford beat the Lancers 14-8 the previous year. Medford looked like it was on its way to another victory when Mark Mulaney ran 63 yards for a touchdown on the second play of the game. But Medford plagued with five fumbles that led to three Churchill touchdowns. Medford scored in the fourth quarter on a Don Hoyt pass to Roger Daniels but it wasn't enough, as Medford lost 27-14.

With football season going into December, the basketball team got off to a late start. The Tornado had only two starters returning, Mike Day and Dain Syverson.

The team practiced two weeks before opening up with Oregon City and Churchill. Medford came away with two wins going into the first annual Medford Christmas Tournament.

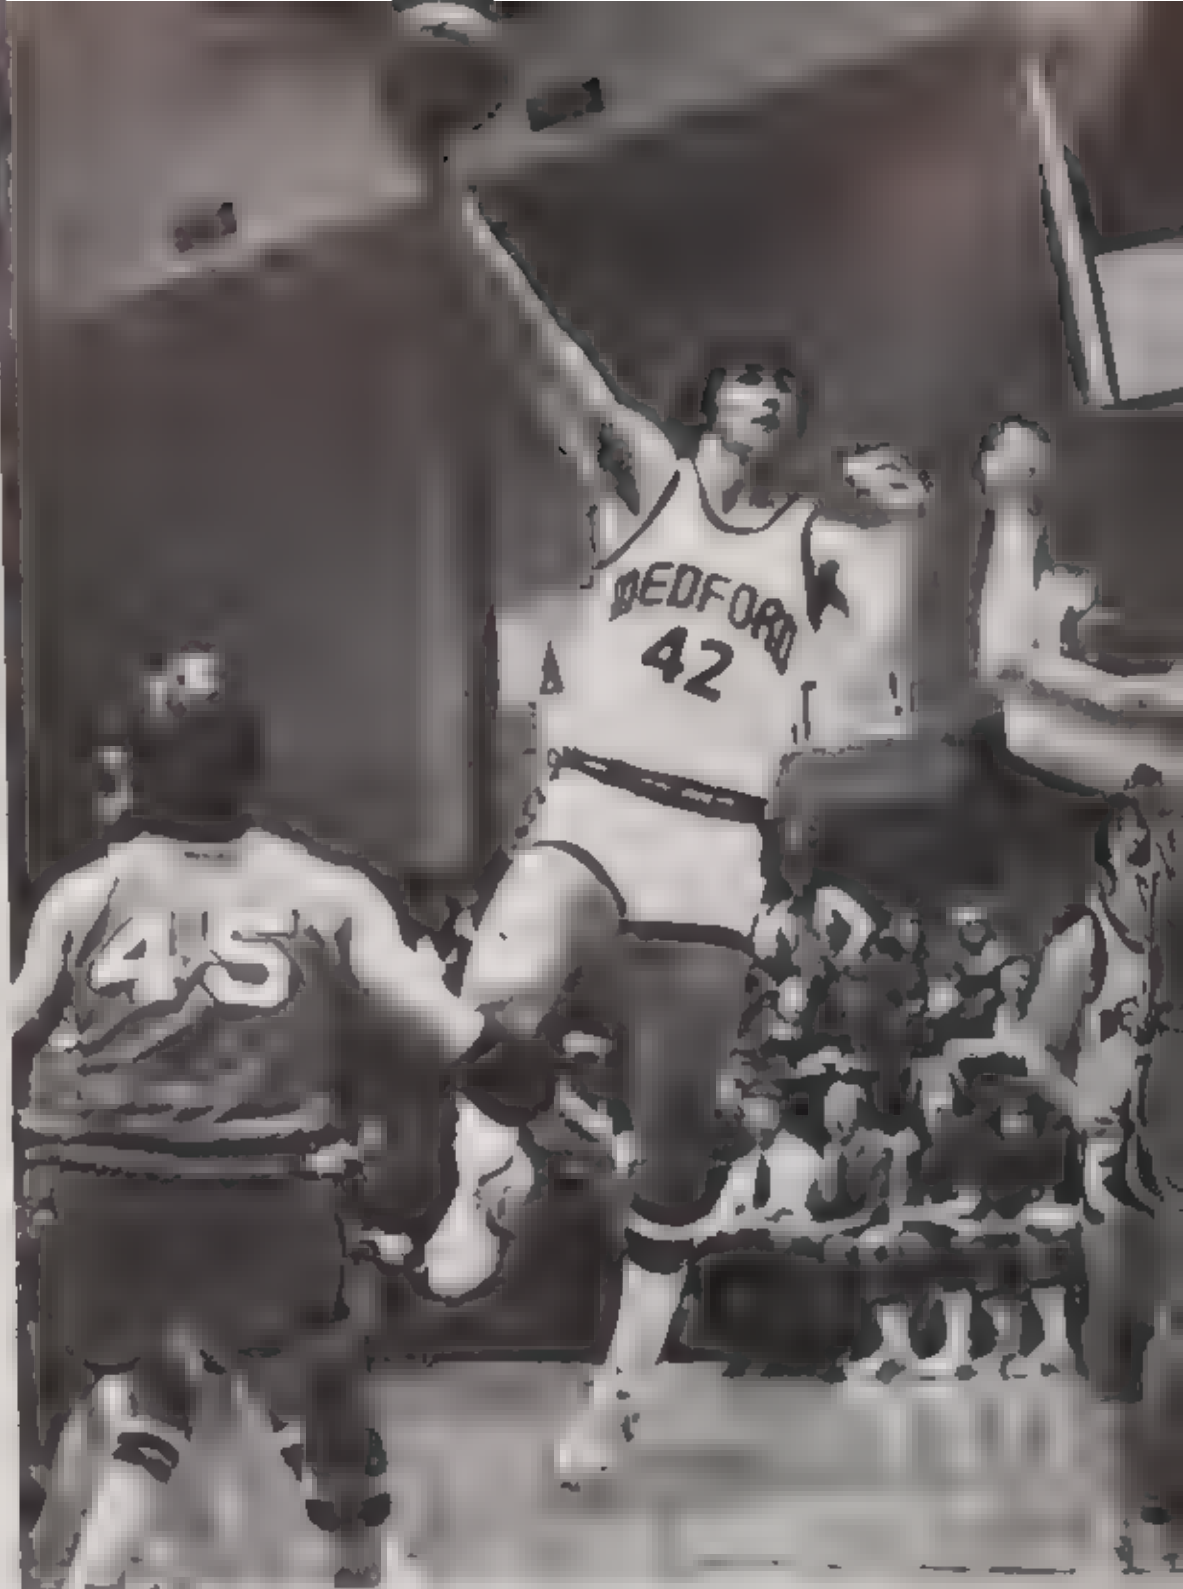

Facing David Douglas in the first game, Medford won by 14, creating a showdown with the number one rated team in the state, McMinnville, who beat Crater the previous night. The Tornado played excellent basketball the first half with the score tied at halftime. In the second half, Medford had a mental letdown as McMinnville went on to win by 30 points. Medford played two more games before opening league play, winning one and losing one.

Tornado Second to Cavemen

Medford went into the SOC opener with a 5-2 record. The Tornado won their first seven league games with no problems. In the final game of the first half, the Tornado lost 30-28 to the Grants Pass Cavemen for the first half championship. The second half repeated itself, making it possible for another Medford Grants Pass showdown. The game was close, but Grants Pass prevailed 31 to 30 forcing Medford into the league playoffs. Medford won both play off games, creating a game with Metro league runner-up Central Catholic for the right to go to state tournament. It was a close game the whole way. Medford led 36-35 with 41 seconds, when a Central Catholic player was fouled with 7 seconds left. He made both free throws. Todd Dixon took a desperation shot with one second left, but it bounced off the rim and ruined Medford's hope of going to the state tournament.

Medford was led by seniors Dain Syverson and Mike Day. Day was third in conference scoring with a 16.1 average, and his teammates voted him team MVP. Syverson was the leader on the court. He was selected for being most inspirational and "Mr. Hustle." Medford also got consistent play from senior Todd Dixon and juniors Jeff Noahr and Glenn Fox.

The Tornado ended the season with a 20-6 record.

Girls' Shoot

14 & 9 Record

It was an outstanding season for the Black Tornado girls' basketball team. Starting in mid November, the girls practiced every day after school. After some tough losses, the girls came back with some impressive wins against Eagle Point and Mazama. The tipoff came when they moved into the playoffs, playing excellently before bowing to Grants Pass for a state berth.

It was the final year for athletic star Pam Williamson. Playing on the varsity team all four years of her prep career, she had an excellent season.

Junior, Julie Vobora critiqued the season by stating: "It was a great experience and we've learned a lot this season. Since we have a young team, I think we're going to be strong in the years to come. I hope we can improve enough to compete at State — The way things are looking, we've got a chance."

1979-80 wrestling got off to a slow start because six of the seven heavier weights were filled with beginning wrestlers, instead of the regular varsity who were still involved in the football playoffs. Medford started to put things together about mid season, but at the close of the season Medford wrestlers were struck with sickness and injuries. Several of the wrestlers were unable to compete in the district tournament, but Medford still managed to place fourth in what proved to be a very tough district tournament. Medford had two bright spots at District, Robin McCurdy and Bob Mahon. McCurdy won the 98 lbs. class and was named MVP. Mahon finished second at 178 after being out half the season with a broken foot. McCurdy and Mahon went on to State and won 5 matches and lost 4.

Medford ended the season with 15 and 9 record. Robin McCurdy was voted MVP while Norman Alexander was selected Most Dedicated.

Gymnastics Has "Building" Year

A "building" year is what assistant coach Gretchen Hamilton called the 1970 Gymnastics season, with just one upper classman, junior Lynnette Bauman, the squad was dominated by freshmen and sophomores. "With all the gymnasts returning next year" stated Hamilton, "we should have a much stronger team the girls will be more experienced." With these factors in their favor, the Tornado gymnasts could be headed toward a future district championship.

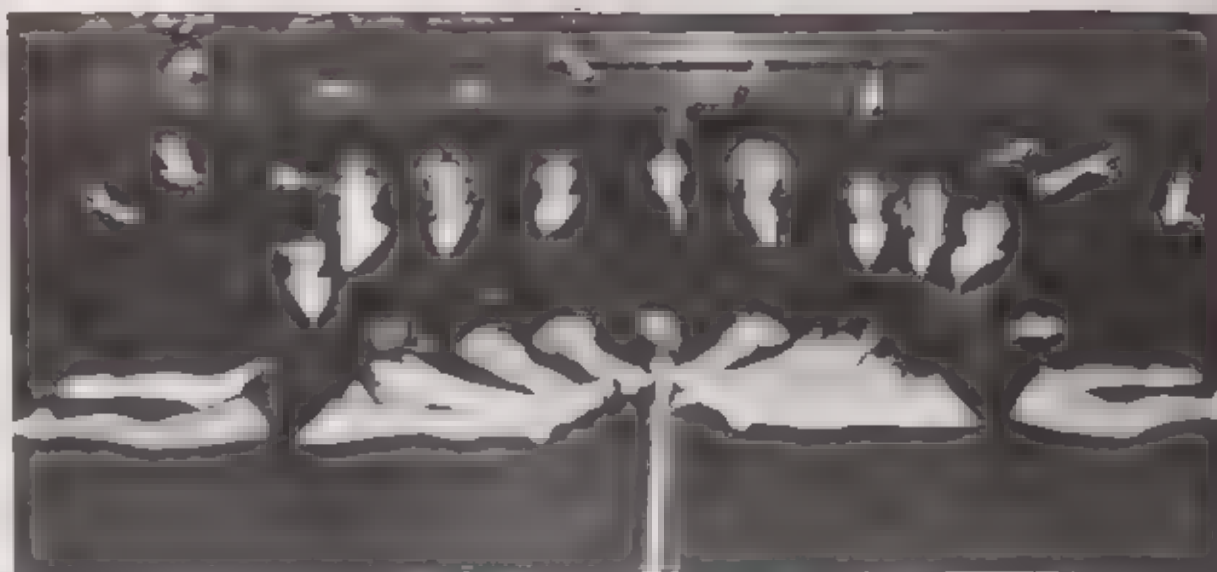

The girls spent many grueling hours of practice in the upper gym mastering new stunts, perfecting dance moves, and polishing routines.

Individual standouts, Nancy Benson and Julie Pringle, consistently outclassed their opponents by placing high in every meet. Both hoped to excel in the all-around competition at the district meet. Unfortunately, Nancy injured herself and was limited to participation in the balance team. Julie Pringle placed 2nd in the floor exercise, 5th in the unevens and 6th in the all-around competition. She rep her team at the state meet in Portland where she gained invaluable experience. Experience, as well as budding potential, will be the key to future success for the Black Tornado gymnasts.

Cross Country 1979: A Season to Remember

Spirit, dedication, and togetherness propelled the Medford Cross Country team to one of its most successful seasons ever.

From the scorching days of August to the crisp days of November, the runners pushed themselves to the maximum; building endurance in long road runs, gaining strength from hill workouts, and developing speed through interval training.

As the runners grew faster and stronger, friendships and team spirit also grew. The leadership and inspiration of seniors Grant Hamilton, Brett Wolte, and Tristi Wood enhanced these feelings. A trip to the coast also helped build spirit and togetherness. These feelings were main factors in the achievement of the runners' final goal — a team berth in the state championship meet.

Their dreams were fulfilled on November 1, at the district meet, the day when everything was laid on the line. The Tornado girls were predicted to run second behind two-time defending champion and meet favorite Ashland. The Tornado, however, pulled an upset victory over the championship by running away with first place honors. Jill David, district winner of cross-country who ran undefeated throughout the season, paced her team to victory with an 11:00 effort. Tristi Wood (8th), Kathy Schlotter (14th), Marie Ricks (15), and Kathleen Sawyer (21) completed the Tornado victory. Coach Lacey summed up their efforts best when he said, "The girls ran hard all season, but they ran their best race of the year today."

The boys also needed to run their best race of the year in order to gain a spot in the state meet. The Ashland boys were the overwhelming favorite, but second place was up for grabs. It was expected to be a three team battle between Medford, Crater, and Grants Pass. The Medford boys made a tremendous team effort to overhaul the other contenders and claim second place.

Medford was paced by Mark Maffet and Grant Hamilton, Maffet finishing 7th and Hamilton a stride back in 8th. But things didn't stop there for the Back Tornado. Brett Wolfe (12th), Desi Guches (17th), and Brian Spicer (20th) kicked home to secure their state berth.

The varsity teams then traveled to Eugene where they competed against the state's best runners. Both teams ran well, and the runners were determined to return next year.

New faces will come, and old friends will go, but the laughter and triumphs they shared will never be forgotten. It was a season to remember.

Hard Work Pays Off in Double District Victory

The months of intense and grueling workouts paid off in a double district victory for the Medford Swim Team. As Kathy Stinson explained, "The workouts are difficult, but when you go to the meets and achieve your goals, the effort all seems worthwhile."

From early October to late February, the swimmers faithfully rose at dawn and hurried to Jackson Pool where they practiced in the icy morning air. Morning swim practices alternated with weightlifting sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The swimmers continued their training regimen in afternoon workouts. Practice even extended to Saturdays and Christmas Vacation. Because the team spent countless hours together, they soon developed into a "big family," pushing one another in workouts and cheering each other on in meets.

The girls' squad, with legendary depth, swam undefeated throughout the season and swept the district competition by an overwhelming 100 points! They then went on to place an outstanding third at the state championship, behind strong Lake Oswego and David Douglas teams. Since these teams will be losing several key swimmers and nearly every Tornado swimmer will be returning next year, Coach Freeman believes the girls have an excellent chance of moving up.

Leading her team to victory was sophomore standout, Susie Ross. Ross has emerged on the Oregon scene as a top ranked swimmer. She swam exceptionally well all season, setting district and team records along the way. Ross won both the 50 and 100 free style at State and her 100 time qualified her for the Jr. Nationals in Lincoln, Nebraska. Because participation would mean two extra months of hard work and the sacrifice of tennis, Susie declined the opportunity. Lori Gilbert, Sue Day, Kathy Stinson, Connor Nuckles, and diver Dana Strong were also guiding forces in the team's success.

The boys also swam well throughout the season. They overpowered all the other contenders at the district championship. Because the boys' competition is so intense at the state level, Medford failed to place high in the standings. Outstanding performers were John Good, Andreas Met, Jack Gilbert, Mike Griffin, and Chuck Freeman.

We have a lot to be proud of in our swimmers. Coach Freeman is looking forward to another great season and his prediction that "The future looks good" is almost an understatement.

Skiers Claim Dual Crown

The start of the season was nothing new. Nobody could say for sure what lay ahead. A district championship for the boys? Possibly a state championship? It was possible, there were a lot of strong and hard skiing boys. But what about the girls? As was said in the newspapers, chances would be slim for them. They would be hard pressed to match the boys.

Even though the skiers started out the season with a 3rd for the boys and a 5th for the girls at the first Bend Giant Slalom, they came through the league season with impressive records. The girls won the next four races hands down, and took a strong second in the fifth race, at Lakeview making them the number one team in the league. The boys came out #1 again winning every race after the first G.S.

Individual results for the girls were outstanding. Nancy Keiser was undefeated the whole league season. She went on and won the overall individual state championship by placing first in the Slalom and second in the Giant Slalom. But the girls needed more than Nancy to have a team championship. Shannon Clay skied in with the team's number two times and planted a solid fourth place overall in the state championships. With a hint of nervousness at the start of the season, junior Whitney West came through the season impressively well and ended up the twelfth best skier in the state. Juniors Kris Tipton, Therese Finch, and Megan Owens and sophomore Wendy Moore made up the rest of the championship team.

As for the guys, Guy Hoerner, having equipment failure during the league season, took 2nd in the Slalom for a third place at the state meet. Todd Evans, a previous Mt. Ashland Racing Association racer, edged away with a second in the State Giant Slalom. Eric Schehen and Gary Hinson placed twelfth and sixteenth respectively at State. Junior Jay Rowe, who was sidelined last year by a broken pevis, came back through the season placing 2nd individually at a Bend G.S. and ending with a 33rd at State. John Bogley in the Slalom and Swiss exchange student Emmanuel Wittstitch in the Giant Slalom placed well.

Overall, this was an historically impressive season for the Medford Varsity Racers — definitely a season to remember. It's a rare occasion that both boys' and girls' teams from the same school win dual state championships.

Deep abiding friendship was one of the keys to successful racing. That and helping each other mentally and physically formed a winning team on the slope and off.

The Medford Boys' Golf Team did it again. For the second straight year the golfers won the state team title. Medford won by two strokes over conference rival, Roseburg. Sophomore Tony Joyner was third, while brother Shell finished sixth after a bad first day. Medford lost only two conference matches during league play to Roseburg, also finishing second at the district tournament. Shell Joyner was voted Most Valuable Golfer.

Successful Season Marks Crisp's Retirement

The Tornado girls fielded a young track team which performed suprisingly well. They won several dual competitions and placed a solid fourth at the district meet.

Top performers during the season included the hurdle trio of Cheri Cottman, Kathy Schlotter, and freshman sensation, Kathy Boyea. All three speakers placed high at District, with Boyea capturing second in the 100 highs to earn her first trip to State. The Distance duo of Ellen Schlotter and Tristi Wood also performed exceptionally well, leaving all other conference runners in the dust. Wood ran strongly in the 1500 and 3000 meters, placing at District in both events. Schlotter ran undefeated throughout the entire season, claiming both the 1500 and 800 district crowns. Ellen then went on to the state championship to nab third in the 1500 with a lifetime best of 4:35. Javelin ace, Julie Vohora was yet another stellar performer. Julie captured a third place at State when she hurled the spear to a personal best of 156 feet.

Head Coach Ian Crisp, after 16 years of coaching, was looking for a new challenge.

Coach Ian Crisp retiring after sixteen years of coaching was affected with the season's outcome. The girls were successful in many ways, but the encouragement, as well as the inspiration of seniors Cheri Cottman and Tristi Wood. Boys' Track Is Moving Up

The Tornado Trackers were the best season yet, bringing home great district and higher-level Grand Pass squads. The team was dominated by a strong group of underclassmen. For this season, Coach Benson believes the Tornado will be a powerhouse in the years to come. Most improved runner, Scott Reynolds, put it best when he warned, "Look out everyone, we're moving up!" Hopetful prospects include sophomore standouts Don Pendergrass, Mark Altenhofen, Mark Mattet, and Scott Reynolds.

Highlighting the season were 800 specialist Grant Hamilton and Mike Tiedy, all-around track star Jay Rowe who specialized in both hurdle events, the shot, and the discus, and perhaps, most sensational of all hurdler ace Kelly Reynolds. Reynolds' flawless form, effortless grace, and raw speed were rivaled by no one. The awesome senior ran unchallenged throughout the season, claiming district titles in both the 110 and 300 meter hurdles. Kelly then went on to State where he captured the 110 meter high hurdle crown and came back to nab a fourth place finish in the 300 meter intermediates.

Girls' Claim Title

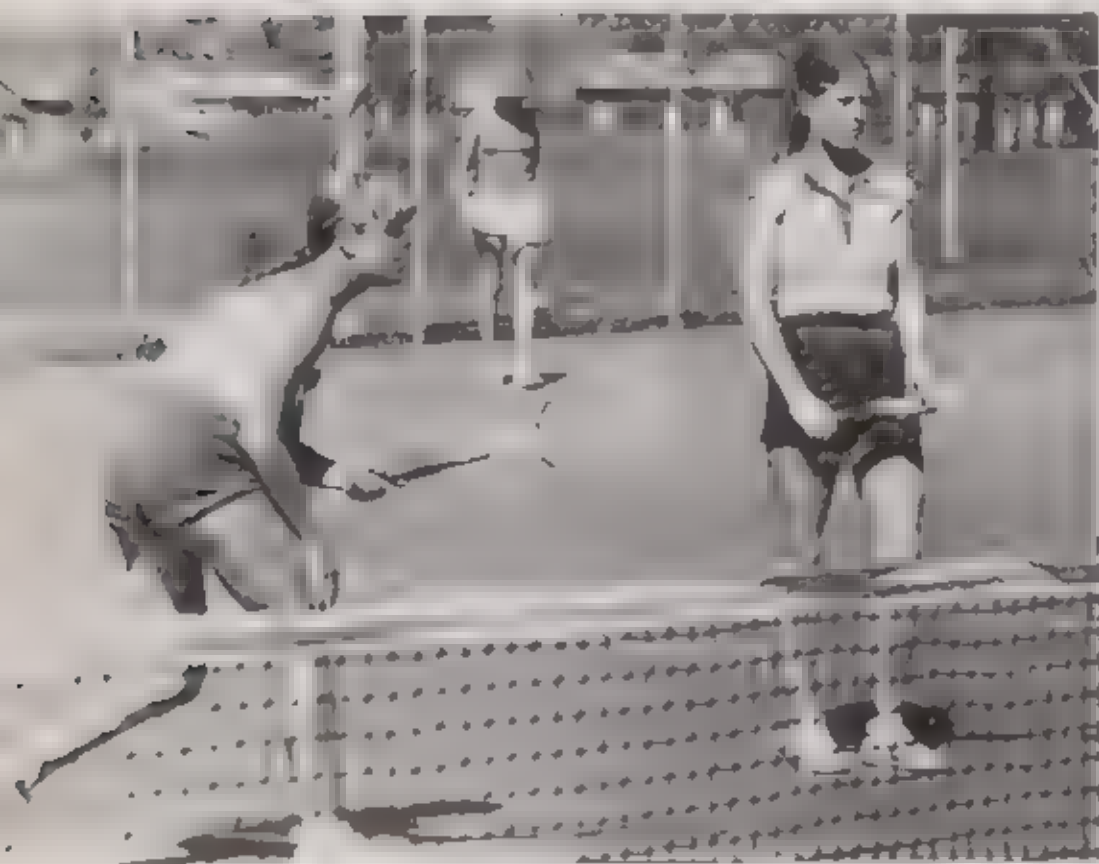

It was a rough season publicity wise for the Medford Girls' Tennis Team. The team members and their coach had confidence, but the press always touted the opposition. The team's confidence plus their ability pulled them to a 13-1 league season record. They won the Crescent Valley Doubles Tournament for the second straight year, and pulled through as district champs beating Roseburg by a margin of 6 points.

From District, Medford qualified two doubles teams and one singles for a State berth. For the 3rd year, Ann Snowden and Hilary Ford participated at State. Junior Julie Chapman and her partner Judy Stringer, a senior, challenged the tournament for the first time and emerged consolation champions. Susie Ross out of Mid High also traveled to the state match for her first time.

Even when the Medford newspapers favored some of the Tornado's opponents, the most important factor getting out and playing hard was the main concern of the players.

Boys Net District Crown

Throughout the season the boys tennis team was unbeatable. The results of the boys conference play were a 15 and 0 record. This record was accompanied by a Crescent Valley Doubles tournament victory with a total of 189 points.

These tennis Tornados fought on to clench the boys district championship. Each member battled to help tally up the 34 points that gave them first place. District champions in doubles were Medford's number one team, Bob Hassen (senior) and Murphy Dysart (freshman). Dave Moss (senior) and Ted Hattfield (senior) were also doubles finalists at District. In singles, Rusty Dysart played an outstanding game which took him on to the state semifinals. The five district finalists went to the state tournaments held in the Portland area. The Black Tornados took a respectable fourth place with a total of 10 points.

The Medford Tornado fielded their first Girls' Softball team, and a pleasant surprise it was. The girls won the Southern Oregon Conference league championship with a 9-1 record. The Tornado, then headed to Portland for the State tournament. Playing Madison in the opener, Medford lost a thriller in 10 innings 2-1, ending their hope for a championship. Coach Fagone stated "It was a great season, this was a learning and teaching process, the girls were cooperative and learned fast. They had the desire and ability to win, and win they did." Top hitters were Shelley Ashpole, Lori Humphrey, and Marla McAbee, Terri Anderson was voted MVP. Medford will lose only 3 starters, so look out next year!

The Black Tornado Baseball Team ended the season with a 29-2 record losing in the quarter-final game to Hood River 5-2. Medford won the league championship with a perfect 16-0 record.

The team advanced into the playoffs behind the pitching of ace Tim Arnsberg and Russ Wilson and the hitting of Bob Jones, Gordon Dotson, and Kent Stafford. The Tornado played Sheldon at home in the first game, winning 9-3, with Tim Arnsberg going the distance. The Tornado traveled north to play Hood River. Weather for the day was terrible. DECA Has New Advisor Distributive education at NSHS involves much more than one might think. DECA offers to interested students, opportunities in marketing, advertising, display, and a host of other areas in business and management.

First year DECA students are introduced to over 900 areas involved in distributive education. Second year members specialize in areas they are most interested in.

DECA usually has a state skills meet in February. This year's team wasn't expected to do well because of teacher changes. Mr. Jantzi was very optimistic and looking forward to next year. "Business machines are a big part of our education program," says Mr. Jantzi, who is thinking about investing in a computer next year.

Mat Stats Replaces Wrestling Rally

The Medford Mat Stats was a club which replaced last year's Wrestling Rally. It was comprised of girls who were interested in wrestling and wanted to get involved at the meets. They timed each three minute rounds and kept the scores throughout the matches. They also kept team scores.

SELAC is a special group of lab assistants for a special group of students. The SELAC program was started back in 1969, although when it started, the response was small. Now the program can boast of a one-to-one ratio of aides to students. Many assistants use their experience to get into related job fields. SELAC members have a broad scope of responsibilities, from working with individual students to teaching a class as a whole. Both the special education students and the lab assistants benefit from their learning experiences.

Language Clubs Taste Foreign Cultures

The objective of the Russian club is to broaden one's view on Russian lifestyle. The Russian Club did quite a few activities which accomplished this. Members were able to sample different kinds of foods — including such dishes as Chicken Kiev and Eggplant Caviar. A Pysanka party was held and the students learned the Russian art of coloring Ukrainian style Easter eggs. At one of their club meetings, the students also gave a short play in the language which they were studying.

The German Club is a club which enables students to learn more about German culture. During the year, the club was able to accomplish several activities. In October, the German Club met with the Mid High German Club and had a potluck enabling them to share their interests in German culture. They made a few trips, one to the coast and cross-country skiing. During December 19-21, they sold Christmas-grams during lunch to raise money for their various activities.

They had two pot-luck dinners this year and ate out at Ashland's Chateaulin restaurant, in order to let the club members learn more about French cuisine.

People Who Love the Outdoors

The Club Friends of the Earth is comprised of people who love being outdoors and are concerned about our natural environment. The main activities of the club are the pack trips. In past years FOE has hiked along the beautiful Olympic Peninsula in Washington. They did not make the Olympic trip this year, but juniors hope to be able to go next year. Other activities of the club included potlucks and films about ecology. To be in this club was to learn to love the land and appreciate one's fellow man

Science club and Friends of the Earth had one main thing in common, the study of ecology. But the comparison basically ended there, for the objectives of the Science Club dealt with learning different areas of the field of science, as well as ecology. The club made two trips this year. The first trip was to the coast where the members were able to study sealife. Their second trip, in March, was to San Francisco where the club visited such

Debbie Trevino Receives Small Scholarship

The prom has always been one of the high points of the Senior High year. If it weren't for the efforts of the Junior Boosters Club, the prom would not have been put on with the usual pizzazz. The club, generally comprised of junior girls, raised the $1000 to put on the prom this year at the Holliday Inn by their various money making activities including selling programs at football games and selling candy in November. The money left over was given as a scholarship to Debbie Trevino who plans to attend Oregon State.

The Order of the M Club was a club which enabled all of the lettermen and letterwomen of Senior High to share their abilities and strive together to accomplish their main activity of the year — "smokers." The "smokers" boxing match was held in April and was open to anyone wanting to take on any friend or enemy inside the ring. Twenty one pairs signed up for the fights and most of them appeared that night, save for the few who couldn't make it. It turned out to be a great success for the Order of the M.

Competitive Mathematics

Students who enjoyed and excelled in mathematics found that Knights of the Log Table was a good way to use their math skills in competition. Four teams were created: The Black Knights, The Ovals of Cassidy, The Radical Six, and the Chi Rho Practors. These four teams competed in five meets this year and performed well. The Black Knights led with first place.

Walking past the History ERC, one may have noticed two life-like statues gazing at a chess board. A person would think "statues" mainly because he may have noted them in the exact same position two weeks before. Actually, they WERE real people — members of the Chess Club. Senior High Hosts State Thespian Conference

It appeared to many people that to be in Thespians was to have a ticket to being crazy! Actually, Thespians were just a bunch of dramatists who loved to have fun. Members of this club had to earn their membership by a point system. Such things as being active for one year, working on play sets, working on the technical crew and other aspects of promoting and putting on plays added points to their membership. This year, the State Thespian Conference was held here at Senior High, where actors actually were able to compete against each other.

Beethoven, Bach, Chopin, and Mozart, who are just a few of the long list of famous classical musicians, were the subjects observed by the Classical Music Society. This club spent their club periods appreciating classical music and had special groups play for them, Alice Cooper — watch out!

Torch Honor Visits SOSC

The purpose of well known scholars club, also known as Torch Honor, is to honor and encourage scholastic ability. Juniors holding a 3.75 grade average or better are initiated into the club through a ceremony held in March. This year Torch Honor made a trip to Southern Oregon State College to get a better idea of the college and what it had to offer. Students were able to visit with professors and observe how certain computers were run.

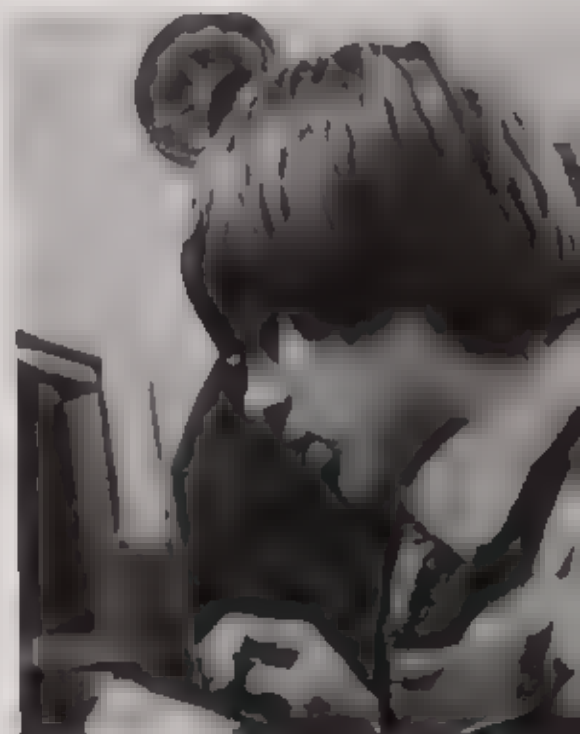

AFS, otherwise known as the American Field Service was a young but rapidly growing club in its second year. The objectives of this club was to aid the American Field Service students and stimulate interest in inter and intranational understanding. The club allowed students to become more acquainted with the two different types of exchange: Americans Abroad (exchanges outside the country) and domestic programs (exchanges within our country).

New Club This Year

The love of the Lord is what brought the Youth Fellowship Club together. It was comprised of people who wanted to meet together in a time of Bible study and discussion. This new club had a special money making activity to earn charity for muscular dystrophy. This was in the form of a pie throwing contest in which pies were auctioned off to be thrown in an indicated person's face. They made a small donation, but had fun in the process.

One of the busiest clubs of the year was the Ski Club. They started their activities in the fall making large signs in the shape of a hand saying "We're No. 1" and selling them at a football game. The club took three weekend skiing trips to Bend and had a pizza party in April. In January, the club presented a Warren Miller ski film and the response was fantastic. They were also active on Mount Ashland and provided gate keepers for three races during ski season.

New Mural for the Cafeteria

Artistic talent was most plentiful in this year's Art Club. Two art shows were held in the cafeteria, displaying the beautiful and impressive artwork of the art students. The second art show also displayed the newly completed mural of "Medford Senior High School in the year 2080," by Curt Fernlund, Roger Hawkins, Greg Martin, and Kent Nottingham. The primary activity for the year, however, was a trip to San Francisco where they were able to see some fascinating art museums and visit Marriotts Great America.

Photography club was formed to provide a service to the school. They took, developed, and printed photographs for students and teachers in exchange for small fees. The photographers also taught each other a few new tricks about the art of photography.

We quote the September 21st edition of the HI TIMES. It is common knowledge that they have the reputation of being the "egg throwing class!"

The Juniors Wrote Back

In response to the article "Juniors Lack Maturity" written by Debbie Trevino, the HI TIMES received many letters from members of the junior class. The article was called slanderous, narrowminded, childish, and a gross misrepresentation. The HI TIMES received some 100 letters. Comments on the editorial were published in the October 5 edition. One letter writer advised Ms. Trevino "reminisce on the past year's graduation ceremony."

Letters to the editor

Students were curious as to why the junior class was categorized by the "mindless few and not the promising majority?" One student wrote that "a good point was attempted by the writer, but the way in which the point was presented gave a false impression of the junior class."

Another student thought the article to be an introduction of a new word: "Classism."

Are We Really That Immature?

We asked some teachers, counselors, seniors, and juniors themselves what they really thought of the class of '81

Jr. Dan Bell: "They're cool!"

Jr. Cathy Bilyeu: "I think the junior class has got its act together and maybe the seniors should re-evaluate themselves."

Jr. Linda Bezanson: "I know that juniors are more intelligent than most people think we are."

Sr. Cindy Bowman: "Some of them are all right."

Sr. Lisa Bourne: "A lot of the juniors are pretty neat but there are parts of the class that are immature."

Sr. Gene Hill: "They have matured through the year."

Mr. Christenson: "I can't categorize them as a class, I have some excellent students, some in between, and some immature."

Mr. Marchington: "Well... from where I sit they're no different from any other class."

Mr. Farrell: "I see some really interesting kids. It will be interesting to see what they grow to be."

Cathy Bilyeu: "The junior class has got its act together!"

From Bars on the Windows to No Windows at All

Juniors remember the old style windows in Mid High

In the move from Mid High to Senior High, the junior class experienced a lot of changes. Many of the students bought cars and started driving to school and out to lunch

The juniors became acquainted with T-period, a 10 minute morning break, and "B schedule" every Tuesday due to club meetings

Juniors discovered that there were no hallways at Senior High and there seemed to be no windows either! For a class that was called rowdy and inattentive adapting to school without "window gazing" must have been hard

We All Had to Have Wheels

From 1956 Ramblers to the 1980 Z-28, it seemed as though almost everyone got a car! The parking lot contained every color of the rainbow and then some. Straight off the lot or out of mom and dad's garage. By the end of the year, practically everyone was driving to school.

A hundred dollars a month for these Heaps?

Since most students turn 16 before their junior year, by school time many parents had been coaxed into buying an "extra" family car.

Many students went to work so they could afford their own car and meet those ever foreboding monthly payments.

Juniors Make New Friends

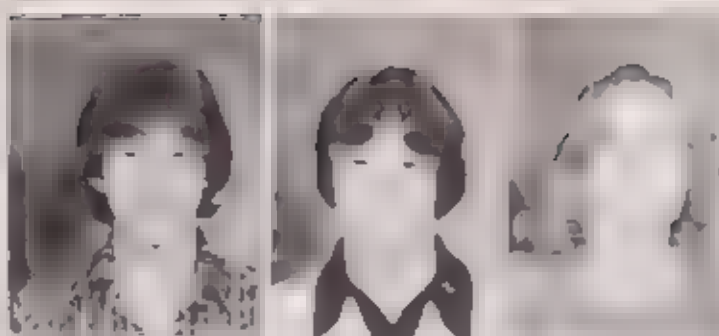

After being the upper class at Mid High, it took juniors a little while to adjust to being the underclassmen once again. Once they settled into this position, renewing old friendships was resumed, and life became a little easier.

Through their classes, clubs, sports, and special interests, the juniors also made many new friends — people they never knew who were also juniors, and seniors they never got to know in the year the classes were together at Mid High. People who had the same interests and goals easily became good friends.

Graduation put a strain on many new friendships as the class of '80 moved on to bigger and better things. Once again leaving the junior class behind to step into the upper classmen role, if only for a year.

Juniors Enter Working Class

Even if Mom & Dad bought you a car you still needed gas to put in it. And at this last year's prices it took a lot more than your allowance (if you still get an allowance) to fill the tank. So the majority of the junior class entered the world of work.

Students tried their hardest at everything from frying hamburgers to selling fashion apparel and many of them tried more than one.

At the opening of places such as Fabulous Franks, Weiner King, and Robinsons, crowds of kids, the majority juniors, stood in line to apply, and a lot of them were hired.

Juniors Become Involved

Throughout the 1979-1980 school year the junior class slowly got involved in the functions and activities of Sr. High. Students campaigned and a new Ex Comm was elected. Club attendance was up. Medford excelled in sports and academic achievement.

The students became involved in the community. Windows were painted during Homecoming, helping to further the student community relationship.

All in all, during the 79-80 school year, the junior class got more involved in school and community activities.

Juniors

Join Clubs

Everyone knew that every Tuesday in between third and fourth period club meetings were held. Group one clubs met one week and group two met the next, alternating all year long. The alternative to going to a club meeting was staying in the classroom and doing homework, reading, or just sitting. Since most of the members of the junior class had a hard time sitting still for half an hour, most of them joined clubs.

Basically the class of '81 seemed to be a class full of get up and go. Juniors became supportive, active members of the clubs they joined, attending the meetings on a regular basis, signing up for details and participating in their club's activities wholeheartedly.

Juniors Accept Responsibility for Actions

Deciding on a career, setting goals and preparing for college brought into sight a whole new set of responsibilities for the class of '81.

We had to have jobs so college could become more of a reality and a car to get us there. Grades were suddenly very important and school attendance was vital.

We had to take responsibility for our actions and own up to our mistakes. Even the activities we became involved in called for us to be responsible. Although we had a slow start, it wasn't long until the junior class saw "the light at the end of the tunnel."

Juniors Try to Get Away From It All

Even though it was the Class of 81's first year at Senior High, the parking lot at lunch was substantial evidence that they liked to get away from it all, if only for an hour.

Kelly Burg heads out for lunch

The students seemed to be in a race out of the lot, but slowly trickled back in at the end of the hour.

The juniors loafed around campus and reluctantly got to class in the last minute of passing time.

Hacky sack, reading, talking with friends or just sitting around helped some of the students "get away from it all."

Tornadia Staff Creates a Senior

The Tornadia Staff took it upon ourselves to attempt to create a profile of the 1980 senior. Like all classes, the Class of 1980 was involved in various activities.

Though we didn't show school spirit in the traditional rah rah black and red get up, we showed it with involvement. Choir members spent much of their school and spare time practicing for their many performances. SELAC club members devoted hours to the special education program. Our Thespian Troupe held the annual state conference here. The Medford debate squad won numerous trophies, representing months of preparation.

As always, sports played an important role in our lives. While the biggies — football and basketball continued with victories, cross country, tennis, wrestling, and skiing also kept Medford in good standing. Highlighting the sports year was the ski team. Both boys and girls won the state championships.

We had involvement, We had our studies. We had our jobs, our friends and our cars, but that isn't the complete senior. It takes much more to portray a senior.

Ideas, goals, and feelings come to mind. We took a poll to find out some of the ideas, goals, and feelings of 1980 seniors. We asked questions ranging from "Where do you work?" to "What was your favorite slang expression?" On the following pages are some of the responses given in our poll.

Mid High — plans are to use it as a third junior high

Beth Ramsay and Tami McMullan put on a good show for Bob Boyea, one of the many citizens who enjoyed the proficiency of the Senior High choir

School Board Plans Second High School

A survey of 547 Medford School District residents selected at random showed most people to be in favor of ending the present grade division system. Those questioned favored construction of a new high school and conversion of the Mid High School, Hedrick and McLoughlin Junior High Schools into three-year junior high schools (grades 7-9) instead of 2-year schools.

59% of respondents indicated that they would support a long-term bond issue to build a second high school.

Assistant Superintendent Richard Slaven, speaking at a Chamber of Commerce forum on January 14, stated that the second high school wouldn't

Joan Garrison demonstrates with microscope in one of Senior High's science labs

A view toward the math/science building

Senior High's auditorium, locale of many Fine productions be a duplicate of the existing high school. It would be equal in quality, but not the same, and would probably be located in the west side of Medford.

Some common reasons for favoring a second high school were —

- Two smaller schools will give more students a chance to participate in sports and activities. The 6-2-2-2 system is bad because a student does not stay in a school long enough for the school to become aware of his needs and for the student to develop a sense of belonging.
- The Mid High needs replacing.
- Too many 9th and 10th graders without older student role models inherently creates a bad situation.

Two seniors against having two separate high schools made the following comments:

Two smaller schools would wipe out the advantages of one. Medford Senior High has calculus, fourth and fifth year foreign language, advanced shop classes. The classes serve everyone. In smaller schools there wouldn't be enough students or money to have those classes. Everyone would lose.

In Medford, there is a great deal of rivalry. If one school was to have something superior to the other there would be a risk of jealous vandalism and theft," said Gregg Johnson.

Mark Scott made the following comment: "If Medford were split into two schools, not only the football team, but all organizations would suffer. As a member of the choir, I feel the dividing of Senior High would be tragic. Medford has one of the best choirs in the state, which enables us to put on fantastic musicals and concerts. Dividing Medford would produce two mediocre choirs, which would soon lose members. Great choirs in Medford would become a thing of the past."

Staff Sweats Possible Strike, Standardization Visit

"Do you think we'll be on strike?" "Will we really gain anything in the long run if we strike?" These were the words of many teachers last summer and in the opening week of school.

549C teachers began the year without a contract. Salary negotiations had been going on since November 1978. By April, an impasse had been reached. Teachers wanted an increase of 12%, and the school board was only willing to give 7%. A state appointed outside mediator was called in to no avail. The fact finding process was then initiated. Fact finding involves both sides.

preparing documentation of their own respective positions. A formal hearing is held. At the close of the hearing, the fact finder takes the evidence presented and within 30 days renders a recommendation.

The fact finder's recommendation was presented to the teachers in September. The board accepted the fact finder's recommendation. A meeting was held in the Senior High auditorium on September 4th. Several teachers spoke on each side of the issue of acceptance. Senior High's Jim Winkelman advised teachers that if they did not accept the fact finder's recommendation, they should be prepared to back up their position with a strike. Teachers voted to accept the 9.6% salary increase recommendation, which was less than the current annual rate of inflation, by a very small majority.

During the week of March 3-7, Senior High was visited by a state standardization team made up of people from the State Department of Education and from other public schools and colleges. Schools must measure up to certain norms, thus the team's duty was to see that Medford schools had developed the proper plans, procedures, and processes to come up with an effective overall program.

Members of the team checked facilities, observed some classes, talked with school personnel and students and reviewed written courses of study and other documents.

Most members of the team indicated they were impressed with the quality of students, teachers, and facilities in Medford schools. By June 1, the district had received a list of commendations as well as recommendations.

Faculty Committees

Familiarize

Teachers with

Total School

Eight faculty committees were set up at the beginning of the year. Each faculty member served on one of the committees. The committees and their functions were as follows:

Sunshine — Social Committee planned social functions and sent cards or flowers in case of faculty illness or tragedy.

Guidance and Counseling Committee received information from counseling department on their activities and provided faculty input on counseling functions and policies.

Home to School Committee put on Advisory Committee represented the faculty on the Parent and Student Advisory Committees and also met as a group to discuss concerns with Mr. Williams

Use of Resources Committee got into use of library, audio-visual and resource centers and made recommendations for any improvements needed

Staff Development Committee recorded educational experiences of faculty members, compiled a professional reading list and planned some educational faculty meetings

School Day-Inservice Committee collected data from the public and the school community for use in future planning

The committee system was designed to involve each faculty member in some phase of the total school operation. A collateral purpose was to promote interrelation of faculty members. Home Ec. Teachers were working on committees with art teachers, English teachers, P.E. teachers, etc. Many faculty members would have never had the occasions to work and communicate with certain other faculty members had there not been these committees

Plans for the future include rotating teachers to a different committee next year so they can become familiar with another phase of the school operation and so they can also work with a different group of fellow teachers

Faculty Puts Fun Into Game

LOL! Laurie Leever

Would you believe Jayne Merickel?

More social events put more fun into the game of life at the beginning of this new decade.

To start the year off, a raft trip and picnic were held on the Rogue. Several faculty members including Mike Ayers, Jack Fink, Cary Hendrix and former teacher Brian Asher, have a wealth of experience on the Rogue and shared their experience and their rafts, kayaks, and canoes with fellow staff members. Two shifts of people, staff members, their spouses, friends and even children traveled from just below Lost Creek Dam to down river from Casey State Park. Then all gathered at Casey for a very delicious potluck picnic.

Special fun was put into the game on Halloween. A large percentage of the staff came to school in costumes. After school a large group of faculty members gathered to socialize and award prizes for some of the very creative costumes. Prize winners were Jayne Merickel, Carole Schuler, Darlene Nelson, Karen LeClaire, and Jack Teeters.

A social function featuring Friday seafood was held in January at the home of Mike Ayers. The annual end of school party was enjoyed again this year.

Thanks to the Sunshine Social Committee, a good time was had by all.

Guest Speakers Student Teachers Add Variety to Classroom Life

Students got relief in some of their classes from listening to the "same old teacher" day in and day out. Student teachers from SOSOC taught classes in several departments during the year. Our English, Business, and Social Studies Departments seemed to be 3 of SOSOC's favorite training grounds for future teachers.

Student teachers had taken almost 4 years of college and completed methods classes and also practicum (where they actually did some real teaching) before beginning student teaching.

Some teachers saw real value in having guest speakers talk to their classes. (After all, they didn't have to teach while the guest speaker was talking.) Realistically — guest speakers provided teachers as well as students with valuable information that can only come with experience working in a particular field. Guest speakers also afforded students an opportunity to get acquainted with people working in various occupations in our community.

Students heard realtors, insurance company employees, a credit counselor, and an apartment complex manager in family finance. Citizenship I had many local government officials as guests. Psychology students heard alcoholism counselors from the V. A. Domiciliary and also witnessed a polygraph demonstration.

Mrs. Adee's English classes had speakers on American Indian culture. The steno cluster heard about court reporting from Doris Abernathy, while business law students heard Carla Juhl, a juvenile department counselor, and Judge Loren Sawyer talk about law and minors.

Career Ed Seminar featured many speakers from the world of work on such varied topics as job seeking skills, opportunities with the new shopping center, and forestry.

Many of the guest speakers' appearances were arranged by CBEC (Community Business Education Center).

Experiences with student teachers and guest speakers helped vary our educational program and promote cooperation and exchange of knowledge between the school and the community.

phone calls from out of town basketball coaches. Ilse Hargrave kept the English teachers in line. Linda Scruggs wore out the top row of keys on her typewriter in science and math. Ron Fuller made a very essential contribution to the vocal music program. Ron is an accomplished pianist and accompanied the choir on many numbers as well as helped stage productions.

Senior High library aides were friends to many students. George Albertson trained students in the use and care of A/V equipment. Marge Madden helped students check out books and magazines and lent a friendly ear and occasional piece of advice. Leah Kelley replaced Joyce Croucher at mid-year.

Many classified employees staffed the school office. Dee St. Martin was office manager; Gerry Nelson, receptionist; Bonnie Tiedy and Darlene Neilson, secretaries.

In the student center, Barbara Williams coordinated appointments with counselors and deans. Joan Bennett became an expert in telling the difference between a student's voice and a parent's voice as she made phone calls to check on attendance.

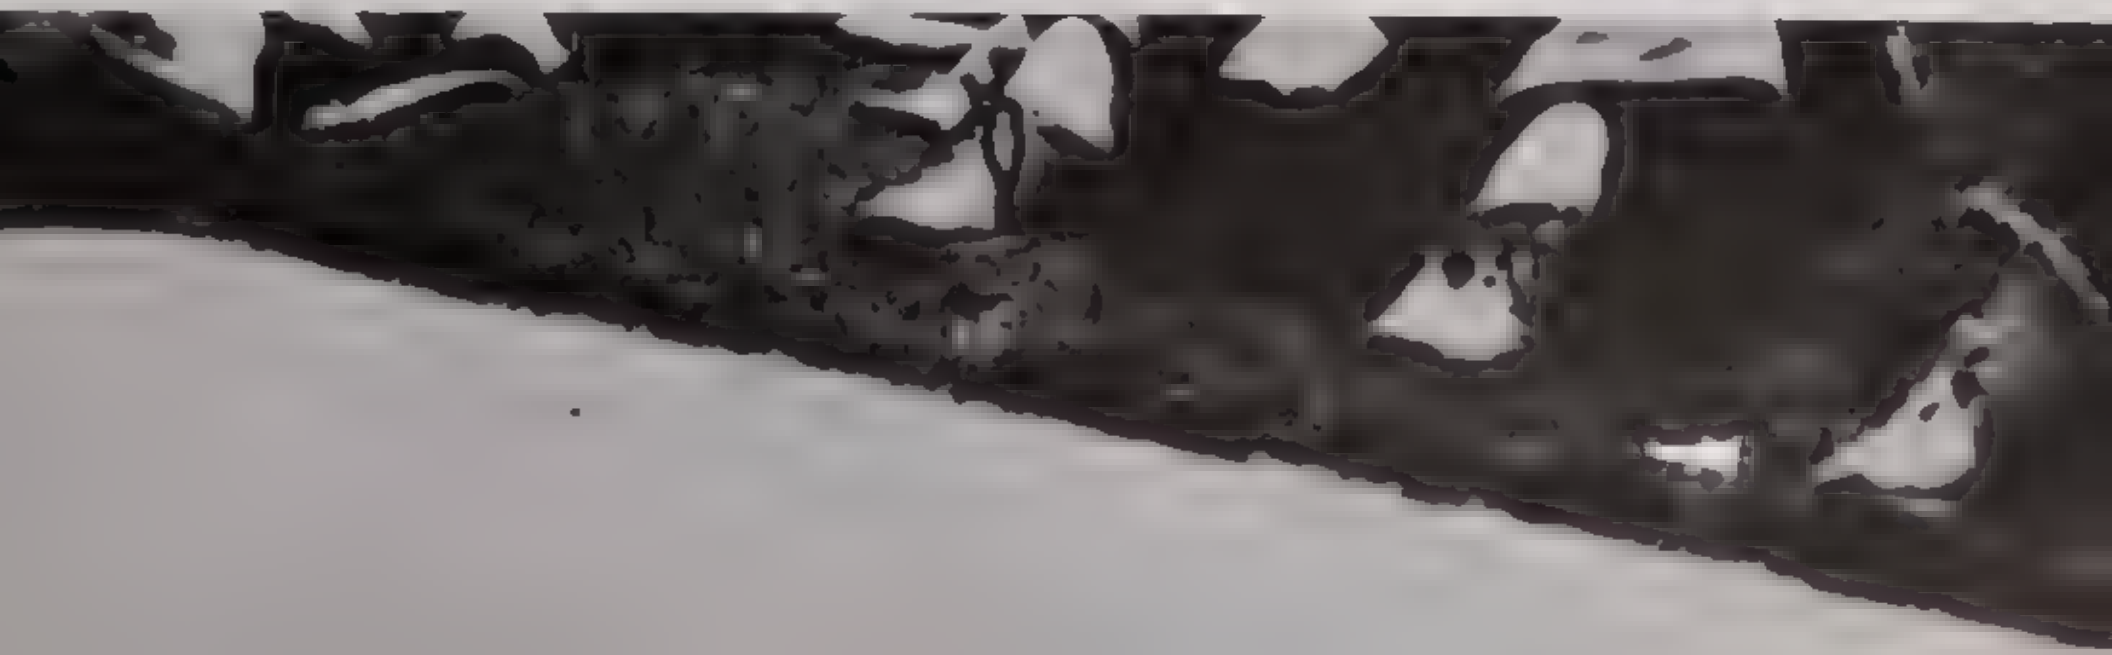

Campus aides, Susan Agnew and Ross Rosmarin were better known by students as "the narcs." In spite of their reputation as "narcs," they never really managed to crack the "French Connection."

Cooks served up lunch every day, while custodians worked after students left to clean up the buildings for the next day.

Seniors Hold Annual Banquet

The Second Annual Senior Banquet was held on the night of May 23rd at the Red Lion Inn. After a steak dinner, seniors were entertained by singers Shane Reed, Kathy Davis, and Derryl Willis.

Throughout the evening, senior class awards were given to various students. These serious and humorous awards were presented by Senior

Banquet Committee members. Winners included Leilani Yamada and David Hearth for Most Likely to Succeed, Julie Hallin and James Smith for Most Spirited, Julie Griffin and Todd Dixon for Nicest Smile, Joan Sias and John Mansfield for Most Studious, Conni Nuckols and Glenn Crouch for Most Fun at School, Monique Whiting and Shaun Harvey for Most Likely to Become a Bum; Kristen James and Kent Stafford for Most Likely to Become a Nun and Priest, JoAnn Lime and Ronnie Heath for Most Radical, Marcie Wilkinson and Bob Mahon for Biggest Flirts; Karen Kyker and Mark Scott for Most Likely to Sell Destruct; Paul Murdoch and Jeanette Jackson for Most Likely to Dodge the Draft, Karen Karterman and Marc Mierher for Most Likely to be Expelled to Iran.

Spring Brings Prom Season

The Prom was held May 3 at the Holiday Inn. Festivities were planned by the Junior Boosters Club, who used as a theme "An Evening in Paradise." Geraniums decorated the tables and "Snowblind" provided the music.

As in years past, the actual Prom was only a small part of the total evening. In fact, one might even refer to Prom Season. The "season" starts with lining up a date. If one does not have a steady relationship, it can be quite a chore to decide whom to ask or to wait by the phone for an invitation.

With the date taken care of, one can move on to the next event — what to wear. Long dresses were the thing for girls. Guys seemed more conservative, sticking mainly to black or brown rented tuxes. A few guys accessorized the uniform of the evening in unique ways — Phil Sundquist with a top hat, and Ron Heath with tennis shoes.

When prom night actually arrived, Prom goers had reservations at many of the fine restaurants in the area — Mon Desir, Jacksonville Inn, Ashland

Frank is returning in mid-September, a lecture in the Medieval and Renaissance Department from the department the day after in Holy Spirit's Middle Ages. On Lisa Ronna and Douglas were surprised and impressed when Beck, Hassen and Douglas arrived to pick them up in a rented minivan.

Rented Tuxes, long dresses, flowers for mignon—it was an evening for champagne taste. Even the shrubs in the back of the Holiday Inn got into high living as soon as the Christmas trees were dumped on the mat, and the crowd of the city authorities.

[illegible]

Prom Night, Long Night for Some

For many, Prom night did not end at midnight. Many stayed out all night and further celebrated with breakfast at restaurants or private homes. Two guys were even reported to have slept in sleeping bags in their tuxes on the lawn in a very nice east side neighborhood.

The Monday following the Prom is traditionally and unofficially Senior Skip Day. Seniors headed for Shasta, the Coast, Emigrant Lake, the Rogue, and various backyard pools around town.

By Monday night another "Prom Season" had drawn to a close. However, the planning for and the enjoyment of the Prom will live on in memories for years to come.

Spring Starts the Countdown

Not long after spring vacation did students begin to feel the approaching summer. Along with that excitement came numerous other excitements, both natural and man-made. One of the largest mountains in Washington, Mt. St. Helens, started trembling in late April. Soon after that, it blew, leaving one of the greatest disasters in Washington since the late 1800's. Along with the volcanic crisis came the political crisis. The Hostages were still being kept captive in Iran, with few and futile attempts to rescue them.

With all of these crises, the students still seemed to enjoy the school year. Seniors looked forward to graduation night. Juniors looked forward to being the top class next season, and teachers looked forward to a peaceful summer.

Aside from looking forward to after school plans, students and teachers alike enjoyed springtime activities. Fun in the Sun Day was held and two outstanding bands, each with different music played. Gary Pickell and his band played rock, while John Mansfield and group moved with jazz. There was the annual hackysack and frisbee contest also.

Sun Sparks the Game

Along with fun and sun came finals and awards time. For seniors it was exciting — the last high school excitement, forever. For juniors, it was just one step closer to seniority. The choir performed their final concert of the year, ending it at the Peter Britt Pavilion at the end of May. Governor Victor Atiyeh visited Medford in April and spoke to students and teachers during a special assembly. George Bush campaigned for a nomination for Pres. at the Holiday Inn.

In a time of shortage, students and teachers managed to spare their time to donate blood. Approximately 97 pints were donated with 108 people attempting to give. Ex-Comm sponsored the event and was pleased with the outcome. Even when the gas prices soared, some students drove but a growing number rode bikes.

It was the first year of a new decade, definitely a year to remember. The events of 1980 were nothing like events in years past, which students and faculty alike will not be soon to forget.

If you think you're beaten, you are
If you think you dare not, you don't,
If you'd like to win, But think you can't
It's almost a cinch you won't.

If you think you'll lose, you're lost
For out in the world we find,
Success begins with a fellow's will —
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're out classed, you are,
You've got to think high to rise,
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go to the stronger or faster man,
But sooner or later the man who wins
Is the one who thinks he can!

You'll Never Find a Class Like This . . .

"You'll never find a class like this again in Medford," stated the Reverend Victor Balala as he waited for the cheering to subside so he could say the benediction.

Joyous, meaningful, and warm, but mostly joyous, characterized the graduation of 1980. Graduation '80 followed on the heels of a very rowdy graduation of the Class of '79. So rowdy, in fact, that it created a flurry of letters to the Editor of the Medford Mail Tribune and prompted the creation early in the year of a graduation committee of students, parents, and faculty members to help plan a more meaningful ceremony for the Class of '80.

At the graduation rehearsal, Principal Bruce Williams said to seniors that we weren't going to have a repeat of last year's graduation. The seniors agreed.

Proud parents arrive early to get a good seat.

Sami Sakai and Peggy Williams of Barraboo react in glee.

The Class of '80.

Steve Hansen and Chris Richardson of Medford.

The Class of '80 is a Warm Class

There was the usual "Pomp and Circumstance," the usual announcement of awards, the usual reading of each graduate's name as he or she walked across the stage. Student speakers were the real mood setters, however, although they both had the crowd wondering at times if it was "Roast Paul Evensen Night."

Dain Syverson provided meaning with "If you can dream it, you can achieve it. If you can imagine it, you can become it."

Leilani Yamada seized the moment and ran with the warmth and joy. She spoke lightly about what a good experience she had at Senior High and what great friendships she had been part of. She said "if you cry out of sadness, or if you cry out of joy, it's O.K. You're in the presence of friends Look to the one on the left and right of you — to the front and back of you. Give them a hug for the Class of '80. It's a warm class."

Hats flew in the air, graduates and friends cheered, and the first class of the new decade marched out joyously to enter the next phase of their Game of Life.

Mr. Williams Thanks Publications Staff

As we emerge from the decade of the 70's into the uncertainty of the 80's we are asked to examine our total heritage. Certainly part of our "roots" for the future are emblazoned on the pages of this — your Tornadia of 1980.

Your Tornadia staff and advisor have spent endless time and effort in the production of this pictorial evidence of your immediate past. They have made a commitment to the development of people and events that developed common bonds on this high school campus in the year 1979-80.

You will have many opportunities in the future to relive this exciting year because of the efforts of those few dedicated annual technicians.

An appreciation of the present and future is dependent upon our appreciation of the "roots" of the past. If this be true, Medford Senior High students have a happy and abundant future to look forward to.

Thank you, Tornadia staff
